A Constitutional System for Truth, Accountability, and Human Flourishing Franc DeBuc Version 1.0 - March 2026

Opening Statement

This is not a doctrine. It is not a belief system. It does not require followers. It is a framework designed to address the breakdown of truth and accountability in modern systems. It introduces mechanisms for verifiability, transparency, and accountability in public decision-making.

Positioning

The Liberation Framework is not a political ideology or religion. It is a systems-level proposal for verifiable, transparent, and accountable decision-making. It is designed for incremental adoption across municipalities, institutions, and organizations.

Framework Structure

1. Liberation Codex (Philosophical Foundation)
2. Global Liberation Constitution (Operational System)
3. Constitutional Companion (Accessibility Layer)
4. Declaration of Liberation (Contextual, Non-Operative)

Public Release Message

This framework introduces PRAS, digital rights, and accountability systems designed for real-world testing and iteration. It is released as Version 1 and is intended to be challenged, refined, and implemented.

Known Limitations

This framework is not yet implemented in a live system and requires pilot environments for validation. It depends on adoption incentives and institutional willingness. It addresses structural issues, not human nature.
